

Dobrich Dog Rescue Adoption Agreement

Preliminary Information:

We at DDR care a great deal about the welfare of all the animals that fall within our care, and as a result it is crucial that they all go to loving and responsible homes. Many of our animals have endured severe abuse or neglect prior to being rescued by our organisation, so it is vital to ensure that our dogs' welfare is safeguarded for the rest of their hopefully happy lives.

As a result it is a requirement, before any of our animals are available to you for adoption, for you to read this agreement and ensure that you fully understand and agree with all the clauses contained hereon in. Upon the payment of your deposit you will be implicitly agreeing to this adoption agreement, and all the obligations it provides.

Terms of the agreement are as follows:

1 . Obligations of the Adopter

1.1. The adopter and their immediate family are hereby obligated to provide the adopted animal with a caring and loving home. This includes obligations such as, but not limited to:

- (a) Water and food must be made available to the animal to the extent necessary to ensure the animal's good health and wellness.
- (b) Appropriate grooming must be undertaken as to ensure the animal's good health.
- (c) The animal must be provided with appropriate veterinary attention from a licenced practitioner as required to ensure the animal's good health.

1.2. The adopter is required to ensure the animal is kept up to date with required vaccinations and other treatment as identified by a licensed veterinary practitioner.

1.3. The adopter is required to have the animal castrated/neutered (as applicable) at a time when it is determined by a veterinary surgeon that it is safe to do so, within the first year of adoption, unless the dog has already been castrated/neutered prior to adoption.

1.4. The adopter hereby agrees, under no circumstances whatsoever, to breed from the animal, or attempt to breed from the animal.

1.5. The adopter is required to notify Dobrich Dog Rescue, as soon as reasonably practical, if they are unable to uphold their agreement to adopt the relevant animal.

1.6. The adopter hereby absolves Dobrich Dog Rescue from any liability for any illness or injury which has been suffered, or could reasonably have been incurred, after the dog has been passed to the transport company for transit.

1.7. The adopter hereby accepts all responsibility for the animal, and any ensuing expense, foreseen or not, once the animal has been delivered to them.

1.8. The adopter is obligated to notify Dobrich Dog Rescue, as soon as reasonably practicable, if they no longer intend to keep the animal for whatever reason.

1.9. Upon notifying Dobrich Dog Rescue of an intention to surrender the animal, the adopter will allow a reasonable period for alternative measures to be implemented, and will use their best endeavours in assisting Dobrich Dog Rescue in facilitating the animal at the new placement (i.e. assisting in transporting the animal).
